SUBJECT: University Union Advisory Board Recommendation on Relocation of the Cal Poly Rose Float Office

In February 2017, the University Union Advisory Board (UUAB) began discussions regarding the best use for the space currently occupied by the Cal Poly Rose Float program.

When the Cal Poly Rose Float program moved to the lower level of the University Union in 2011, it was intended to be a temporary work space. Since then, the program has used the space to increase visibility and promote the Rose Float program to the larger campus community. Earlier this year, an opportunity arose for the program to move to the Solar Decathlon House, located next to the Rose Float lab.

On March 2, 2017, after debate and discussion, the UUAB voted unanimously to recommend to the ASI Executive Director and the University President to relocate the Cal Poly Rose Float office to the Solar Decathlon House. The group agreed that the Rose Float office would be better suited for the students near their work environment at the Rose Float lab. With this move, the UUAB members expressed interest in utilizing the space to meet the needs of a larger cross section of the student population.

The University Union Advisory Board unanimously recommends the relocation of the Cal Poly Rose Float office to the Solar Decathlon House. The UUAB requests that ASI staff report progress and results of this project on a regular basis to the UUAB.
